1983 1992 Bmw K100 K75 The BMW K75 is a standard motorcycle produced by BMW Motorrad from 1985 to 1995. The three-cylinder BMW K75 was developed alongside the K100, but was introduced a year after the K100 as a marketing strategy. The K75 engine had the same bore and stroke as the K100, yielding a displacement of 740 cc. BMW K100 - Wikipedia The 1983 production K100 engine was of BMW's own design, though, with dual chain-driven overhead camshafts, two-valves per cylinder and liquid cooling. Fueling was by Bosch LE-Jetronic injection, while inductive electronic ignition provided the sparks. Another Brick in the Wall: 1986-1992 BMW K75S -

Classic ... The BMW specs have a K75S at 504 lbs wet (229 kg) and the K100RS at 548 lbs (249 kg).

Some of that is due to the "missing" cylinder but some is also due to the K75S fairing weighing less so it's a bit less topheavy than a

Manual History of the 1983-1995

BMW K75, K100 By the 1980s, it was only BMW and Harley-Davidson that were making solely air-cooled engines. BMW had at one point considered building a water-cooled flat-four, but risked copying

Honda's Gold Wing, so the Germans came up with a much more creative solution which ideally suited their shaft-drive system. 1993 BMW
