which promotes opportunities for the development of a self-extending system (Fountas and Pinnell, 1996).
Teacher's role in guided reading Teachers select texts to match the needs of the group so that the students, with specific guidance, are supported to read sections or whole texts independently. Guided reading Next, during guided practice, the teacher helped the students practice asking questions by helping them select a prompt and develop a question that began with that prompt. The students practiced this step many times with lots of support from the
